

RULES OF PLAY

1. To start the game, each player draws 8 Emoji Cards.

2. The player with the most unread texts begins as the Group Chat Moderator (GCM). The GCM draws a Blue Text Card to start the round.
3. The GCM selects a Text Card from the top of the deck & reads the text aloud.
4. Each player chooses 1 Emoji Cards per blank in the Text Card to best answer or complete the Text Card. (30 sec. time limit recommended)
5. After everyone chooses their Emojis, everyone reveals their emoji combinations at the same time. The GCM then reads the message with the different emoji combinations aloud.

6. Every player must justify their choice of emoji to convince the GCM to choose them as the winner of the text card.

7. The GCM then chooses their favorite response. The player who submitted the winning answer receives that round's Blue Text Card. All Blue Cards have a letter on them. These letters are very, very important; pay attention to them!
8. After the round, the player to the right of the old GCM becomes the new GCM, and everyone draws more Emoji Cards to maintain an inventory of 8. The new GCM puts a new Blue Text Card into play, and the game continues as described above.
9. The round ends when a player collects Blue Text Cards that spell "D-M-M-e" (1 D, 2 Ms, and 1 e)

There are a subset of Emoji Cards called Wild Cards & there are a subset of Blue Text Cards called DM Cards.

Players can use Wild Cards to obtain a strategic advantage during a hand.

When a DM Card is revealed, the GCM will immediately draw another Blue Text Card until a non-DM Card is drawn. The DM Card's rules will apply to the newly drawn Blue Text Card. After the winning DM is chosen at the end of the round, players must follow the rules written on the DM Card to see who has to send it!

@ the end of this round, the GCM will roll the dice:

[for all players] if you have fewer text cards than the dice number, u must DM the winning message to the last person u texted

the player with the fewest text cards flips a coin to DM the winning message...

HEADS: DM ur last missed call
TAILS: exempted from DMing
