Dear Editor

RULES OF PLAY

Setup

- Place all prompt cards face-down (the side with blanks facing up) in a pile
- Choose a category (Relationship, Career, Self-Help, News Flash)
- The first editor is the person who first read the rules
- Take cards:
  - Each columnist takes a "fill-in-the-blank" prompt from that category (do not look at the actual prompt!)
  - Each columnist fills in the blank(s) based on the requirements for each blank of their prompt card (30s)
  - The editor draws a "breaking news" card, which they can play at any point in the round

Procedure

- Pass the filled-in cards to the columnist to the right
- Next columnist thinks of a solution for the problem and draws that solution (2 min)
  - Don't draw just the problem itself!
- After time is up, each columnist comes up with a (clickbait-like) headline for their submission
- Now all columnists have 30 seconds to come up with a presentation
- All columnists presents to the group
  - The editor picks who presents first
- After everyone presents, columnists may argue to convince the editor to pick their story
- The editor chooses the presentation they liked the most
  - The columnist who wins gets their story published and wins a token!
- The person to the right of the editor becomes the new editor
- Repeat!
- Person with most tokens at the end wins
